small & friendly hotels of croatia

The word "KANAJT" origins from latin - CANNA or CANNETUM, which means reed, cane. That tells us that reed was grown once on the territory of today's hotel.

The name was first mentioned in 1419., found in a document in which Punat and St. Peter's chapel were described. The remains of St. Peters chapel can be seen by the hotel. Former bishop's residence in 1528, farm, orchard and vineyard nurseries, housekeeping school.

The house and property of the bishop was mentioned in 1558. After that, in 1962, at the time of the bishop Nosadin, the house was restored or destructed.

One report states that the small building was clearly widespread, and in others that he has built a house next to St. Peter church for his new heir. The building shows characteristic style elements from the past, particularly visible in the windows.

Since 1956, the building has been owned by Economic Chamber of Macedonia. In 1982 Marina Punat bought the the whole complex. In 1988 was established the restaurant and in 1998 was converted into a hotel of the highest category.
